SUMMARY ANALYSIS

This House Joint Resolution proposes to amend Article X, Section 12, of the State Constitution, relating to rules of construction, to prohibit the application of the maxim "expressio unius est exclusio alterius" in interpreting the extent of political power vested in the legislative branch by the people. This maxim holds that "the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another." As far back as 1905, the Florida Supreme Court stated that the maxim should be applied "with great caution to the provisions of an organic law relating to the legislative department...." This sentiment has been echoed in the courts of other states, although many appear to have permitted its application in various circumstances such as qualifications for election to a constitutional office but not in others such as regulating the taxing power of the Legislature. In a recent case, the Florida Supreme Court disapproved of a decision of the 1st District Court of Appeal by applying this maxim to declare Florida's school voucher program unconstitutional. The North Carolina Supreme Court and the California Court of Appeal appear to be examples of courts that have refused to apply this doctrine when interpreting their constitution if not in all cases, then in all but what appear to be very rare circumstances.

Within our constitutional framework, the people are sovereign and the source of all governmental power. The Florida Constitution (like other state constitutions) is the way in which the people have chosen to allocate and regulate their sovereign governmental power not exclusively granted to the federal government in the United States Constitution. This is accomplished primarily by "vesting" the legislative, executive and judicial powers in certain defined offices and collegial bodies. Most other constitutional provisions serve to direct and/or limit the application of these vested powers. Therefore, the bulk of powers exercised by the three branches of government are vested powers; they do not arise out of specific grants of power. Through the Florida Constitution, the people have vested legislative authority in the Legislature with such exceptions as the people have clearly delineated. The legislative branch looks to the Constitution not for sources of power but for limitations upon power.

In contrast, the federal constitution is a constitution of delegated powers, having only those specific powers given to it in the Constitution and those "necessary and proper" to carry out those powers. All other sovereign governmental powers are reserved to the States.

The Division of Elections within the Department of State estimates that the cost of compliance for a proposal with a ballot summary of 75 words or less would be approximately $50,000.

This is a joint resolution which requires passage by a 3/5 vote of each chamber.

Proposed Changes

This House Joint Resolution proposes to amend Article X, Section 12, of the State Constitution, relating to rules of construction, to prohibit the use of the maxim "expressio unius est exclusio alterius" in interpreting the extent of political power vested in the legislative branch by the people. This maxim holds that "the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another."

Background

Constitutional Power and Authority: Contrasting the Federal and State Constitutions

The federal constitution is a constitution of delegated powers, "having only those specific powers given to it in the Constitution,"[1] and those "necessary and proper" to carry out the enumerated powers. All other powers are reserved to the states.[2]

Within our constitutional framework, the people are sovereign and the source of all governmental power. The Florida Constitution (like other state constitutions) is the way in which the people have chosen to allocate and regulate their sovereign governmental power not exclusively granted to the federal government in the United States Constitution and acts as a limitation on governmental powers. This is accomplished primarily by "vesting" the legislative, executive and judicial powers in certain defined offices and collegial bodies. Most other constitutional provisions serve to direct and/or limit the application of these vested powers. Therefore, the bulk of powers exercised by the three branches of government are vested powers; they do not arise out of specific grants of power.

Through the Florida Constitution, the people have vested legislative authority in the Legislature with such exceptions as the people have clearly delineated.[3] "The legislative branch looks to the Constitution not for sources of power but for limitations upon power."[4] The authority of the legislative branch is "plenary" (i.e., "absolute") in the legislative field.[5] It is limited only by the "express and clearly implied provisions of the federal and state constitutions."[6] "In other words, the Legislature may exercise any lawmaking power that does not either expressly or by necessary implication conflict with any other provision of the State or Federal Constitution."[7]

The Application of the Maxim "Expressio Unius Est Exclusio Alterius" in Constitutional Interpretation

It is a generally accepted principle that interpreting a constitution, as any written document, only becomes necessary when the plain meaning cannot be ascertained and the intent is ambiguous. Further, that in construing a constitution, effect should be given to every part of the document and every word and where possible, conflicting provisions should be harmonized. There are numerous rules of construction utilized by the courts. The Florida Constitution sets forth several of these such as "(t)itles and subtitles shall not be used in construction."[8]

One such rule of construction is "expressio unius est exclusio alterius;" that is, "the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another." For example, if the constitution included or "expressed" specific disqualifications for holding elective office, then applying this maxim, the exclusion of any other disqualifications would be implied. The Ohio Supreme Court used the following illustration to describe the way in which the rule operates when applied in this context:

> Thus, when the General Assembly has full power to legislate in a field that has natural subclasses (A, B, C, D, etc.) and a constitutional provision puts restrictions on subclasses A, B, and C, that does not mean (under application of the doctrine of expressio unius est exclusio alterius) that the constitutional provision has removed the power to legislate as to subclass D. Rather, it means the power to legislate as to subclass D is not restricted.[9]

This maxim generally does not apply with the same force to a constitution as to a statute ("it should be used sparingly" in construing the constitution)[10] and particularly in regards to the legislature.[11]

Florida

As far back as 1905, the Florida Supreme Court stated that the maxim should be applied "with great caution to the provisions of an organic law relating to the legislative department...."[12] This sentiment has been echoed in the courts of other states.[13]

Although Florida courts, like those of other states, have cautioned against its use, they have not prohibited its outright use in construing provisions of the Florida Constitution.[14] Most recently, the Frohmiller*, 178 P.2d 436 (Az. 1947) and 16 Am.Jur.2d Constitutional Law s. 69.

[14] The Florida Supreme Court has stated that "the principle is well established that, where the Constitution expressly provides the manner of doing a thing, it impliedly forbids its being done in a substantially different manner. Even though the Constitution does not in terms prohibit the doing of a thing in another manner, the fact that it has prescribed the manner in which the thing shall be done is itself a prohibition against a different manner of doing it....Therefore, when the Constitution prescribes a manner of doing an act, the manner prescribed is exclusive, and it is beyond the power of the Legislature to enact a statute that would defeat the purpose of the constitutional provision. See Weinberger v. Board of Public Instruction, 112 So. 253, 256 (Fla. 1927). In Holmes I, infra note 15, the 1st DCA distinguished Weinberger in that the constitution forbade any action other than that specified in the constitution, and the action by the Legislature defeated the purpose of the constitutional provision....(here the court said) in this case, nothing in (the constitutional provision at issue) prohibits the Legislature from allowing the well-delineated use of public funds for private school

Florida Supreme Court, over sharp dissent, disapproved of a decision of the 1st District Court of Appeal[15] by applying this maxim to declare legislation creating a school voucher program unconstitutional.[16] The Supreme Court read the constitutional provision as a limitation on the power of the Legislature—as an exclusive means for accomplishing a duty contained in the Constitution. The majority defended its use of this maxim, believing the constitutional provision at issue "provides a comprehensive statement of the state's responsibilities regarding the education of its children."[17] In dissent, Justice Bell found the language of the constitutional provision at issue to be "plain and unambiguous" and, therefore, "wholly inappropriate for (the) court to use a statutory maxim such as expressio unius est exclusio alterius to imply such a proscription."[18] He believed its use in this case "significantly expands this Court's case law in a way that illustrates the danger of liberally applying this maxim."[19] He wrote:

> In accord with courts across this nation, this Court has long recognized that the expressio unius maxim should not be used to imply a limitation on the Legislature's power unless this limitation is absolutely necessary to carry out the purpose of the constitutional provision....We have repeatedly refused to apply this maxim in situations where the statute at issue bore a "real relation to the subject and object" of the constitutional provision.[20]

Other States

As mentioned previously, like Florida, virtually all states appear to caution against the use of this maxim in constitutional construction,[21] although many appear to permit its application in various circumstances such as qualifications for election to a constitutional office but not in others such as regulating the taxing power of the Legislature.[22] For example, the Colorado Supreme Court, while accepting the principle that "all power which is not limited by the constitution is vested in the people and may be exercised by them via their elected representatives so long as the constitution contains no prohibition against it," nonetheless applied the maxim as the rationale for the rule that "the fact that the framers of the state constitution chose to specify the qualifications for this office limits, by implication, the legislature's power to impose additional qualifications."[23] The Louisiana Supreme Court has held that education...." In Taylor v. Dorsey, 19 So.2d 876 (Fla. 1944), the Florida Supreme Court found the principle enunciated in Weinberger inapplicable because the statutory provision did not violate the "primary purpose" of the constitutional provision. See infra, note 16.

In doing so, the majority distinguished the case of Taylor v. Dorsey, 19 So.2d 876 (Fla. 1944), cited by Justice Bell in his dissent in opposition to the application of "expressio unius est exclusio alterius" in this case.

[23] Reale v. Board of Real Estate Appraisers, 880 P.2d 1205, 1208 (Colo. 1994). The court placed great weight on the characterization of the right involved as a "fundamental right reserved to the people—the right to vote for representatives of their choice—(and that the right) would hinge not on constitutional guarantees, but on the General Assembly's willingness to abstain form imposing additional qualifications or holding constitutional offices." Also, in Colorado, the framers of the constitution "did express their intent to permit the legislature to fix additional qualifications for certain offices...." However, the dissent noted that where the constitution strips the General Assembly of power, it does so expressly. The Court sided with the majority of states that had held that "where the Constitution establishes specific eligibility requirements for a particular constitutional office, the constitutional criteria are exclusive.") In this regard, see also Thomas v. State, 58 So.2d 173 (Fla. 1952). (Per Thomas: "The principle is well established that where the Constitution expressly provides the manner of doing a thing, it impliedly forbids its being done in a substantially different manner. Even though the Constitution does not in terms prohibit the doing of a thing in another manner, the fact that it has prescribed the manner in which the thing shall be done is itself a prohibition against a different manner of doing it. Therefore, when the Constitution prescribes the manner of doing an act, the manner prescribed is exclusive, and it is beyond the power of the Legislature to enact a statute that would defeat the purpose of the constitutional provision.") Regarding the application of the maxim for a different policy

"(i)n construing a Constitution, resort may be had to (the) well-recognized rule of construction contained in the maxim "expressio unius est exclusio alterius...."[24]

In contrast, the North Carolina Supreme Court and the California Supreme Court[25] appear to be examples[26] of courts that have refused to apply this doctrine when interpreting their constitution if not in all cases, then in all but what appear to be very rare circumstances. As stated by the North Carolina Supreme Court in embracing the California rationale:

> This doctrine flies directly in the face of one of the underlying principles of North Carolina constitutional law. As Justice Mitchell himself stated for the Court in (the) Preston (case):
> > "[I]t is firmly established that our State Constitution is not a grant of power.... All power which is not expressly limited by the people in our State Constitution remains with the people, and an act of the people through their representatives in the legislature is valid unless prohibited by that Constitution....This fundamental concept, that a state constitution acts as a limitation, rather than a grant of power, is certainly not unique to North Carolina. The California Court of Appeal, for example, recently reviewed the basic principles of California constitutional law as set out in previous decisions of the California Supreme Court.[27] The following passage from that opinion could serve just as easily as a primer for North Carolina constitutional law: Unlike the federal Constitution, which is a grant of power to Congress, the California [North Carolina] Constitution is a limitation or restriction on the powers of the Legislature. Thus, the courts do not look to the Constitution to determine whether the Legislature is authorized to do an act, but only to see if it is prohibited. Further, "[i]f there is any doubt as to the Legislature's power to act in any given case, the doubt should be resolved in favor of the Legislature's action. Such restrictions and limitations [imposed by the Constitution] are to be construed strictly, and are not to be extended to include matters not covered by the language used." Consequently, the express enumeration of legislative powers is not an exclusion of others not named unless accompanied by negative terms. In other words, the doctrine of expressio unius est exclusio alterius...is inapplicable."[28]

This bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local government.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Safeguard Individual Liberty: the bill limits the ability of persons and businesses to maintain certain policies related to their premises, but permits lawful possession of a firearm that is locked in or locked to a motor vehicle that is on any premises set aside for the parking of motor vehicles.

Promote Personal Responsibility: the bill provides immunity from civil liability to any person or entity for damages in certain occurrences resulting from the use of a firearm that was lawfully transported and stored in a locked motor vehicle on the person's or entity's property that was set aside for the parking of motor vehicles.

Maintain Public Security: the bill affects policies regarding the possession of firearms in vehicles in certain locations.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Present Situation:

A firearm is defined as "any weapon (including a starter gun) which will, is designed to, or may readily be converted to expel a projectile by the action of an explosive; the frame or receiver of any such weapon; any firearm muffler or firearm silencer; any destructive device; or any machine gun. The term "firearm" does not include an antique firearm unless the antique firearm is used in the commission of a crime."[1]

Section 790.053, F.S, provides that it is unlawful to openly carry any firearm or electric weapon, except a person may openly carry a self-defense chemical spray or a nonlethal stun gun or other nonlethal electric weapon that does not fire a or projectile and is designed solely for defensive purposes. A violation of this provision is a misdemeanor of the second degree.

Section 790.06, F.S, provides that the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services may issue licenses to persons qualified to carry concealed weapons or firearms. A concealed weapon or firearm is defined as "a handgun, electronic weapon or device, tear gas gun, knife, or billie, but the term does not include a machine gun as defined in s. 790.001(9)."

Section 790.25, F.S., provides for the lawful and unlawful ownership, possession, and use of firearms and other weapons. It specifically prohibits the carrying of a concealed firearm or weapon without a permit. This section provides that the provisions of s. 790.053, F.S., and s. 790.06, F.S., discussed above, do not apply to:

- Members of the military, law enforcement, or persons carrying out or training for emergency management duties;
- Guards or messengers of common carriers;
- Members of any organization duly authorized to purchase or receive weapons;
- A person engaged in fishing, camping, or lawful hunting or going to or returning from a fishing, camping, or lawful hunting expedition;
- A person engaged in the business of manufacturing, repairing, or dealing in firearms;
- A person firing weapons for testing or target practice;
- A person traveling by private conveyance when the weapon is securely encased or in a public conveyance when the weapon is securely encased and not in the person's manual possession;

[1] Section 790.001(6), F.S.

- A person while carrying a pistol unloaded and in a secure wrapper, concealed or otherwise, from the place of purchase to his or her home or place of business or to a place of repair or back to his or her home or place of business;
- A person possessing arms at his or her home or place of business; or
- Investigators employed by the several public defenders of the state or the capital collateral representative.

Subsection (5) of s. 790.06, F.S., specifically provides that it is lawful "for a person 18 years of age or older to possess a concealed firearm or other weapon for self-defense or other lawful purpose within the interior of a private conveyance, without a license, if the firearm or other weapon is securely encased or is otherwise not readily accessible for immediate use."

Schools

In addition to the statutes discussed above regarding the possession of firearms, each district school board in Florida is required to have a zero-tolerance policy regarding the possession of firearms by students on school grounds.[2] A violation of the policy must result in a least a one-year expulsion from school and referral to the criminal justice or juvenile justice system. Trespassers that carry a weapon or firearm on school property, public or private, commit a felony of the third degree.[3]

Congress enacted the Gun Free School Zones Act in 1990.[4] It was subsequently overturned by the United States Supreme Court as a violation of Congress's powers under the commerce clause to regulate inter-state commerce.[5] The Act was passed again in 1996 with changes to address the concerns of the Supreme Court that made it only applicable to guns that crossed state lines in commerce.[6] In general, the Act makes it unlawful for any person to possess a firearm in a school zone. The term "school zone" means "in, or on the grounds of, a public, parochial or private school or within a distance of 1,000 feet from the grounds of a public, parochial or private school." The term "school" means "a school which provides elementary or secondary education, as determined under State law." Whoever violates the Act may be fined up to $5,000, imprisoned up to five years, or both. Exceptions to this Act include:

- if the person is licensed to do so;
- if the firearm is not loaded and in a locked container, or a locked firearms rack which is in a motor vehicle;
- by an individual for use in a program approved by a school in the school zone;
- by an individual in accordance with a contract entered into between a school in the school zone and the individual or an employer of the individual;
- by a law enforcement officer acting in his or her official capacity; or
- the firearm is unloaded and is possessed by an individual while traversing school premises for the purpose of gaining access to public or private lands open to hunting, if the entry on school premises is authorized by school authorities.

Other States

Oklahoma and Alaska have passed laws prohibiting persons and businesses from banning the otherwise lawful possession of a firearm in a locked vehicle in a parking lot.[7] The Oklahoma statute has not taken effect pending the outcome of federal litigation seeking to overturn the law.[8] Georgia and Indiana have similar legislation pending.[9]

Occupational Violence

An average of 1.7 million people were victims of violent crime while working or on duty in the United States each year from 1993 through 1999, including an average of 1.3 million simple assaults, 325,000 aggravated assaults, 36,500 rapes and sexual assaults, 70,000 robberies, and 900 homicides.[10] In 2001, there were 639 workplace homicides in the U.S., the lowest number since the Census of Fatal Occupational Injuries began in 1992 (just over 80% of these were from shootings). Of the occupations examined, police officers, corrections officers, and taxi drivers were victimized at the highest rates. Businesses can be and have been held liable for crimes occurring on their property where they were found to be negligent in providing security.

Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill provides that a person or entity may not establish, maintain, or enforce a policy or rule that has the effect of prohibiting the otherwise lawful possession of a firearm that is locked in or locked to a motor vehicle that is on any premises set aside for the parking of motor vehicles. The bill creates a criminal penalty of a third degree felony for violation of the prohibition created by the bill. A third degree felony is punishable, pursuant to s. 775.082 and s. 775.083, F.S., by a term of imprisonment not exceeding 5 years and a fine not to exceed $5,000.

The bill provides to any person or entity immunity from civil liability for damages in certain occurrences resulting from the use of a firearm that was lawfully transported and stored in a locked motor vehicle on the person's or entity's property that was set aside for the parking of motor vehicles. This immunity does not apply if the person or entity commits a criminal act involving the use of such firearm.

The bill provides that a person who is injured due to a policy prohibited by the bill may sue the person or entity with such policy, and if he or she prevails, the court shall award actual damages, court costs, and attorney fees and enjoin any further violations. If an employee who is lawfully transporting or storing a firearm in a locked motor vehicle on property set aside for parking is discharged for violating a policy prohibited under this bill, the employee is entitled to reinstatement to the same or equivalent position, including any fringe benefits and seniority rights, compensation for any lost wages, benefits, or other lost remuneration caused by the termination, and payment of attorney's fees and costs.

The bill defines "motor vehicle" as any automobile, truck, minivan, sports utility vehicle, motorcycle, motor scooter, or any other vehicle required to be registered under Florida law. The bill states that the intent of the new law is "to reinforce and protect the right of each law-abiding citizen to enter and exit any parking lot, parking facility, or space used for the parking of motor vehicles while such person is lawfully transporting and storing a firearm or firearms in the motor vehicle and the firearm or firearms are locked in or locked to the motor vehicle, to avail himself or herself of temporary or long-term parking or storage of a motor vehicle, and to prohibit any infringement of the right to lawful possession of firearms when such firearms are being transported and stored in a vehicle for a lawful purpose."

[8] The Williams Co. and ConocoPhillips Co. have sued the State of Oklahoma in U.S. District Court, Northern District of Oklahoma, No. 04-CV-820 H(J). The federal court enjoined the enforcement of the statute pending the litigation. It certified to the Court of Criminal Appeals of Oklahoma the question of whether the statute was a criminal statute. The Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that it was a criminal statute in Whirlpool Corp. v. Henry, 110 P.3d 83 (Okla. Crim. App. 2005).

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1. Amends s. 790.25, F.S., relating to the lawful ownership, possession, and use of firearms and other weapons.

Section 2. Amends s. 27.53, F.S., relating to the appointment of assistants and other staff by public defenders to conform a cross-reference.

Section 3. Provides that the bill will become effective upon becoming a law.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

The bill does not appear to have any impact on state revenues.

2. Expenditures:

While the bill does create a new felony penalty which is unranked on the offense severity chart in s. 921.0013, F.S., third degree felonies rarely result in jail or prison time. The Criminal Justice Estimating Conference routinely classifies new third degree felony penalties as having no fiscal impact or insignificant fiscal impact. See also additional fiscal comments in "D." below.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

The bill does not appear to have any significant impact on local government revenues. See also additional fiscal comments in "D." below.

2. Expenditures:

The bill does not appear to have any impact on local governments' expenditures. While it does create a new felony penalty, third degree felonies rarely result in jail or prison time. See also additional fiscal comments in "D." below.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

The economic impact on the private is unclear. Employers that have policies regarding the possession of firearms in vehicles in their parking lots will no longer enjoy these policies. However, employers may enjoy greater protection from liability regarding the use of a firearm in the employer's parking lot that was lawfully stored in a vehicle. It is unknown how many employers have these policies.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

The bill creates a criminal penalty of a felony of the third degree. Any third degree felony conviction under the bill's provisions could result in a fine of up to $5,000. Pursuant to s. 142.01, F.S., as of July 1, 2004, fines collected under the penal laws of the state are distributed to the Clerk of Courts of the respective county where the prosecution occurred.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Not applicable because this bill does not appear to require counties or cities to: spend funds or take action requiring the expenditure of funds; reduce the authority of counties or cities to raises revenues in the aggregate; or reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or cities.

2. Other:

Preemption

There may be some federal laws that specifically regulate the premises of certain employers, including their parking lots. In its memorandum of law in the case challenging the Oklahoma statute, Haliburton Energy Services, Inc. argues that federal laws regulating nuclear safety,[11] oil and gas operations,[12] and the use of explosives,[13] preempt the state law as it applies to the premises of these businesses.[14] It has also been argued in this same case that the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act[15] preempts the state statute.[16] Federal law is considered to have preempted a specific area of law when Congress has shown its intent to occupy a given field. When Congress is determined to have shown such an intent, a court may strike down a state law that attempts to regulate this same field of law. A Court may find that Congress has completely preempted an area of law or it may find that the preemption is only a partial preemption and some state regulation may be allowed.

Access to Courts

The bill provides immunity for persons and entities from civil liability in lawsuits for certain actions involving the use of firearms. This provision may implicate the "access to court" protections of the Florida Constitution.[17] The Florida Supreme Court has held that that where a right to access the courts for redress for a particular injury predates the adoption of the access to courts provision in the 1968 state constitution, the Legislature cannot abolish the right without providing a reasonable alternative unless the Legislature can show (1) an overpowering public necessity to abolish the right and (2) no alternative method of meeting such public necessity.[18] A litigant could argue that the bill denies him or her access to the courts if a cause of action existed under Florida law before the adoption of the access to courts provision in 1968. Should a court find a cause of action did not exist, the judicial inquiry would end at that point. But it is also possible that a court could hold that pre-1968 Florida law would have allowed such suits under the common-law cause of action for negligence. If so, this bill might be evaluated under the Kluger standard.

Right to Bear Arms

The Florida Constitution[19] and the U.S. Constitution[20] contain provisions protecting a citizen's right to bear arms. However, these provisions are not implicated without some sort of state action.[21] The Florida Supreme Court, in interpreting Florida's constitutional provision, held that while "the Legislature may not entirely prohibit the right of the people to keep and bear arms, it can determine that certain arms or weapons may not be kept or borne by the citizen."[22]

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

The bill does not appear to create a need for rulemaking or rulemaking authority.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

The effective date of this bill is upon becoming a law. The bill contains a new criminal penalty. Typically, when creating a criminal penalty, the public may need to be given some time to be put on notice of its creation.

The bill applies to policies or rules affecting any property that has been set aside for the parking of motor vehicles. The bill does not distinguish between commercial property or residential property. If the bill is intended to apply to commercial property only, it may need to be clarified.

The bill provides that a person or entity may not establish, maintain, or enforce a policy or rule that has the effect of prohibiting the otherwise lawful possession of a firearm that is locked in or locked to a motor vehicle that is on any premises set aside for the parking of motor vehicles. However, the bill provides immunity from civil liability to any person or entity for damages in certain occurrences resulting from the use of a firearm that was lawfully transported and stored in a locked motor vehicle on the person's or entity's property that was set aside for the parking of motor vehicles. If these provisions are to be consistent, the bill may need to be amended.

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

HB 371 CS creates the Cancer Drug Donation Program Act under s. 381.94, F.S. The bill requires the Department of Health (DOH) to establish and maintain a cancer drug and supplies donation program under which a donor may donate cancer drugs or supplies needed to administer cancer drugs for use by an individual who meets eligibility criteria specified by the DOH in rule. The DOH is authorized to adopt rules for the implementation of the program.

Donations may be made only at a hospital pharmacy that elects or volunteers to participate in the program. A dispensing pharmacy may charge a handling fee sufficient to cover the cost of preparation and dispensing of cancer drugs or supplies under the program. Under the bill, a cancer drug may only be accepted or dispensed under the program if such drug is in its original, unopened, sealed container or packaging. A cancer drug cannot be accepted or dispensed under the program if the drug bears an expiration date that is less than 6 months after the date the drug was donated or if the drug appears to have been tampered with or mislabeled.

A person who is eligible to receive cancer drugs or supplies under the state Medicaid program or under any other prescription drug program funded in whole or in part by the state, or by any other prescription drug program funded in whole or in part by the federal government, or by any other prescription drug program offered by a third-party insurer, is ineligible to participate in the program, unless benefits have been exhausted, or a certain cancer drug or cancer supply is not covered by their prescription drug program.

The bill requires the DOH to establish and maintain a participant facility (i.e., hospital pharmacy) registry for the program. The registry must include the name, address, and telephone number of the facility.

The bill provides immunity from civil and criminal liability for donors, pharmaceutical manufacturers or cancer supply manufacturers in certain circumstances.

According to the DOH, the bill, if enacted, will have a negative fiscal impact on DOH of $65,306 in FY 06/07 and $71, 079 in FY 07/08.

If enacted, the bill will take effect July 1, 2006.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Provide limited government: The bill creates an additional responsibility for the DOH and authorizes the development of additional rules.

Ensure lower taxes. The bill permits a participant facility dispensing cancer drugs or supplies under the proposed donation program, to charge a handling fee "sufficient to cover the cost of preparation and dispensing of cancer drugs or supplies...."

Promote personal responsibility: The bill allows individuals to contribute cancer drugs on a voluntary basis.

Empower families: The bill provides opportunities for certain families with limited resources to pursue less costly cancer treatments.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

EFFECT OF HB 371 CS

HB 371 CS creates the Cancer Drug Donation Program Act under s. 381.94, F.S. The bill requires the DOH to establish and maintain a cancer drug and supplies donation program under which a donor defined as a patient or patient representative, physician, health care facility, nursing home, hospice, or hospital pharmacy may donate cancer drugs provided that it has been maintained within a closed drug delivery system[1] or supplies needed to administer cancer drugs for use by an individual who meets eligibility criteria specified by the DOH in rule. Drug manufacturers, medical device manufacturers or suppliers, wholesalers of drugs or supplies may also donate cancer drugs or supplies to the program. The DOH is authorized to adopt rules for the implementation of the program.

Donations may be made only at a hospital pharmacy that elects or volunteers to participate in the program. A dispensing pharmacy may charge a handling fee sufficient to cover the cost of preparation and dispensing of cancer drugs or supplies under the program. Under the bill, a cancer drug may only be accepted or dispensed under the program if the drug is in its original, unopened, sealed container or packaging. A cancer drug cannot be accepted or dispensed under the program if it bears an expiration date that is less than 6 months after the date the drug was donated or if the drug appears to have been tampered with or mislabeled.

A person who is eligible to receive cancer drugs or supplies under the state Medicaid program or under any other prescription drug program funded in whole or in part by the state, or by any other prescription drug program funded in whole or in part by the federal government, or by any other prescription drug program offered by a third-party insurer, is ineligible to participate in the program, unless benefits have been exhausted, or a certain cancer drug or cancer supply is not covered by their prescription drug program.

The bill requires the DOH to establish and maintain a participant facility (i.e., hospital pharmacy) registry for the program. The registry must include the name, address, and telephone number of the facility. The DOH must make the participant facility registry available on the department's website to any donor wishing to donate cancer drugs or supplies to the program. The DOH web site shall also contain links to cancer drug manufacturers that offer drug assistance programs or offer free medication.

Under the act, a donor of cancer drugs or supplies, or a participant facility in the program, who exercises reasonable care in donating, accepting, distributing, or dispensing cancer drugs or supplies under the program is immune from civil or criminal liability and from professional disciplinary action of any kind for any injury, death, or loss to person or property relating to activities of the program.

In addition, a pharmaceutical manufacturer or cancer supply manufacturer is not liable for any claim or injury arising from the donation and use of any cancer drug under the program, including, but not limited to, liability for failure to transfer or communicate product or consumer information regarding the donated drug or supply as well as the expiration date of the transferred drug or supply.

Because the bill creates new law and allows the donation of cancer drugs or supplies currently prohibited by statute and regulations, the bill provides that if any conflict exists between the provisions contained in the newly created s. 381.94, F.S., and provisions in Chapter 465, F.S.,[2] or Chapter 499, F.S.,[3] the provisions contained in s. 381.94, F.S., shall control as to the operation of the Cancer Drug Donation Program Act.

BACKGROUND AND CURRENT SITUATION

Cancer is a general term for a group of diseases in which abnormal cells grow out of control. Cancer cells can invade nearby tissues and can spread through the bloodstream and lymphatic system to other parts of the body.[4] Cancer is the second leading cause of death in Florida and in the United States. In 2005, an estimated 570,000 Americans—or more than 1,500 people a day—were expected to die of cancer. Of these annual cancer deaths, 40,090 are expected in Florida. In addition, approximately 1.4 million new cases of cancer were expected to be diagnosed nationally. This figure includes an estimated 96,200 new cases that were likely to be diagnosed in Florida.[5]

Estimated New Cases of Cancer – 2005
Types of Cancers	US	FL
All Cancers	1,372,910	96,200
Breast (female)	211,240	13,430
Uterine Cervix	10,370	730
Colon & Rectum	145,250	9,860
Uterine Corpus	40,880	2,520
Leukemia	34,810	2,620
Lung & Bronchus	172,570	13,130
Melanoma of the skin	59,580	4,600
Non-Hodgkin Lymphoma	56,390	3,470
Prostate	232,090	19,650
Urinary Bladder	63,210	4,890

The financial costs of cancer treatment are a burden to people diagnosed with cancer, their families, and society as a whole. Nationally, cancer treatment accounted for an estimated $72.1 billion in 2004 in spending.[6] The cost of treating cancer varies greatly by the type of cancer an individual has been diagnosed to have.

According to National Institute of Health (NIH) - Cancer Institute, there are 500 agents (i.e., drugs) that are being used in the treatment of patients with cancer or cancer-related conditions.[8] There are estimates that consumers leave unused approximately $1 billion worth of unused prescription drugs[9] per year.

Cancer drug donation or repository program

To address the issue of affordability of treatment and unused prescription medication to treat cancer, some states have established a cancer drug donation or repository program to accept unused, unopened, prescription drugs and medical supplies. Wisconsin,[10] Colorado,[11] and Nebraska,[12] are among the states that have passed cancer drug donation laws. Several other states are considering similar legislation.[13]

In general, the cancer donation programs being established in other states have similar characteristics. These characteristics include, but are not limited to:

- A mechanism to accept unused, unopened, individually packaged prescription drugs and medical supplies from individuals and health care facilities and these would be redistributed to uninsured and under-insured cancer patients.
- Preference being given to the uninsured for access to donated drugs and supplies.
- Donated drugs being distributed only when prescribed by a doctor and dispensed by a pharmacist.
- Donated drugs and supplies being in their original, unopened, sealed and tamper-evident packaging.
- Health facilities being able to charge a handling fee for dispensing donated cancer drugs but may not resell donated drugs.
- Having a central registry operated by a state agency to track participating facilities.

Relevant Statutory Provisions

Section 465.016, F.S.
Section 465.016(1) (l), F.S., prohibits a pharmacy from placing into stock any part of any prescription compounded or dispensed which is returned by a patient; however, in a hospital, nursing home, correctional facility, or extended care facility in which dispensed unit dose medication is transferred to the facility for administration, these may be returned.

Chapter 499, F.S.
The Florida Drug and Cosmetic Act is codified in ch. 499, F.S. The Act defines "wholesale distribution" to mean distribution of prescription drugs to persons other than a consumer or patient, but does not include specified activities. Chapter 499, F.S., provides safeguards for the public health and protection from injury by product use and by merchandising deceit involving drugs, devices, and cosmetics. The chapter provides uniform legislation to be administered so far as practicable in conformity with the provisions of, and regulations issued under the authority of, the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and that portion of the Federal Trade Commission Act which expressly prohibits the false advertisement of drugs, devices, and cosmetics.

Section 499.014, F.S., authorizes the distribution of prescription drugs by a charitable organization under a limited permit issued by the DOH.

Section 893.13, F.S.
Section 893.13, F.S., provides that, except as authorized by Chapter 893, F.S., (i.e., Drug Abuse Prevention and Control) and Chapter 499, F.S., it is unlawful for any person to sell, manufacture, or deliver, or possess with intent to sell, manufacture, or deliver, a controlled substance.

Florida Administrative Code
The DOH has adopted rules governing the issuance of a restricted prescription drug distribution permit for charitable organizations, and for the operation of their organizations under this permit.[14]

Relevant Government Agencies

U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA)
The FDA is the federal agency responsible for ensuring that foods, drugs, biological products, and medical devices are safe and effective. Under section 505 of Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, no drug can be introduce or deliver for introduction into interstate commerce unless approved by the FDA.

The FDA has no specific regulations regarding cancer drug donation programs and leaves the cancer donation program to the discretion of the state as long as the state enforces applicable regulations relating to prescription medication.[15]

[14] Rules 64F-12.015(8)(c) and 64F-12.023(1)., F.A.C.

Department of Health
The Bureau of Statewide Pharmaceutical Services is responsible for enforcing Florida's Drug and Cosmetic Act, Chapter 499, F.S. The purpose of this act is to safeguard the health of the public and protect the public from injury by product use and merchandising deceit involving drugs, devices and cosmetics, as well as false and misleading advertising. The Bureau also provides pharmaceuticals to County Health Departments annually and administers the State of Florida's pharmaceutical contracts.
Agency for Health Care Administration
Hospitals are subject to oversight by the Agency for Health Care Administration and most are accredited by the Joint Commission for Healthcare Organizations. These entities have policies for reviewing pharmacy operations in hospitals.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1: Creates s. 381.94, F.S., to establish the Cancer Drug Donation Program under the DOH.

Section 2. Establishes an effective date for the act of July 1, 2006.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

   None.

2. Expenditures:

   According to the DOH, 1 full-time equivalent position is needed to create and maintain the registry, to provide consultation and technical assistance, and to perform other administrative functions.

	FY 06-07	FY 07-08
Salary and Expenses	($65,306)	($71, 079)

The bill does not identify the source of funding for this new program.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

   None.

2. Expenditures:

   None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

For a hospital pharmacy that elects or volunteers to participate in the program, there will be costs associated with the processing, storage, dispensing and disposal of donated cancer drugs and supplies. These costs could be recovered fully or in part by the handling fee authorized in the bill to cover the cost of preparing and dispensing the cancer drugs or supplies under the program. The fee will be established in rules adopted by the DOH.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

According to the DOH, in order to dispense donated drugs to eligible recipients, participating hospital pharmacies will be required to obtain a Community Pharmacy Permit thus incurring an additional cost of $255.00 for licensure.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

This bill does not require counties or municipalities to spend funds or to take any action requiring the expenditure of funds. This bill does not reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or municipalities. This bill does not reduce the authority that municipalities have to raise revenue.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

The act authorizes the DOH to adopt implementing rules to include:

- Eligibility criteria, including a method to determine priority of eligible patients under the program.
- Standards and procedures for participants that accept, store, distribute, or dispense donated cancer drugs or supplies.
- Necessary forms for administration of the program, including, but not limited to, forms for use by persons or entities that donate, accept, distribute, or dispense cancer drugs or supplies under the program.
- The maximum handling fee that may be charged by a participant facility that accepts and distributes or dispenses donated cancer drugs or supplies.
- Categories of cancer drugs and supplies that the program will accept for dispensing.
- Categories of cancer drugs and supplies that the program will not accept for dispensing and the reason that such drugs and supplies will not be accepted.
- Maintenance and distribution of the participant registry.

However, the bill does not provide the DOH with any guidance as part of this delegated authority: The bill gives the agency broad discretion on formulating rules.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

The bill creates a new program, but makes no provision for a funding source to cover the anticipated fiscal impact.

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE & COMBINED BILL CHANGES

On January 11, 2006, the Health Care General Committee adopted one amendment to the bill. The amendment:

- Restricts cancer drugs to those approved by the FDA.
- Defines closed drug delivery system.
- Changes the definition of "donor" to include only cancer drugs that have been maintained within a closed drug delivery system.
- Defines "nursing home."

- Changes the definition of "Participant facility" to mean a class II institutional hospital pharmacy.
- Strengthens provisions to ensure the integrity of a donated drug.
- Provides that a donation of cancer drugs can be made only at a participant facility.
- Allows the DOH to exclude any drug based on its therapeutic effectiveness or high potential for abuse or diversion.
- Excludes a person receiving Medicaid or any other prescription drug program funded in whole or in part by the federal government (e.g., Medicare), or by any other prescription drug program offered by a third-party insurer, unless benefits have been exhausted, or a certain cancer drug or cancer supply is not covered by the prescription drug program.
- Requires the DOH to maintain a cancer drug donation program web site and links to cancer supply manufacturers that offer drug assistance programs or offer free medication.
- Adds cancer supply manufacturers to those immune from liability for any claim or injury arising from the donation and use of any donated cancer drug.
- Provides that if any conflict exists between the provisions contained in s. 381.94, F.S., and provisions in Chapter 465, F.S.,, or Chapter 499, F.S., the provisions contained in s. 381.94, F.S., shall control as to the operation of the Cancer Drug Donation Program.

As amended, the bill was reported favorably as a committee substitute.

BILL #: HB 849 Regulation of Court Interpreters

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The bill would require the Supreme Court to establish minimum standards and procedures for court interpreters. These would cover qualifications, certification, professional conduct, discipline, and training. It would also permit the Supreme Court to charge fees to applicants seeking to become certified or renew their certification as a court interpreter. These revenues would be used to partially offset the costs of administering the certification program and performing other related responsibilities. The Supreme Court would be authorized to appoint or employ personnel to assist the court in administering these responsibilities.

Currently, the Supreme Court is authorized to establish analogous standards and procedures for court reporters and for mediators and arbitrators similar to those proposed in this bill for court interpreters, but with two primary differences: one, in the court reporter program, the Supreme Court must impose fees, whereas for the proposed court interpreter program and the mediators/arbitrators program it is discretionary; and two, the fees imposed in the court reporter program must be in an amount sufficient to fully, not just partially, fund the cost of administering the certification program. The mediator/arbitrator program makes no distinction between full or partial funding. In 2003, the Legislature repealed the provision granting fee authority to the Supreme Court for the court reporter program, only to restore it in 2004.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

The bill implicates the following House Principle—

Provide limited government. The bill authorizes the creation of a new program for certifying, training, and disciplining court interpreters. It specifically authorizes the Supreme Court to employ necessary staff to administer the program.

Ensure lower taxes. The bill authorizes the Supreme Court to impose fees to partially fund the court interpreter certification program and other responsibilities authorized in the bill.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Proposed changes

The bill would require the Supreme Court to establish minimum standards and procedures for court interpreters. These would cover qualifications, certification, professional conduct, discipline, and training. It would also permit the Supreme Court to charge fees to applicants seeking to become certified or renew their certification as a court interpreter. These revenues would be used to partially offset the costs of administering the certification program. The Supreme Court would be authorized to appoint or employ personnel to assist the court in administering these responsibilities.

Currently, the Supreme Court is authorized to establish analogous standards and procedures for court reporters and for mediators and arbitrators similar to those proposed in this bill for court interpreters, but with two primary differences: one, in the court reporter program, the Supreme Court must impose fees, whereas for the proposed court interpreter program and the mediators/arbitrators program it is discretionary; and two, the fees imposed in the court reporter program must be in an amount sufficient to fully, not just partially, fund the cost of administering the certification program. The mediator/arbitrator program makes no distinction between full or partial funding. In 2003, the Legislature repealed the provision granting fee authority to the Supreme Court for the court reporter program, only to restore it in 2004.

Background

Courts have determined that indigent defendants have a constitutional right to a court interpreter when a fundamental interest is at stake. Implicated are the due process, equal protection, and confrontation clauses of both the federal and Florida constitutions. Additionally, in Florida, the access to courts provision is also implicated.[1] Judges have broad discretion to determine whether or not an interpreter is necessary in a particular case. By statute, the Legislature requires a judge to appoint an interpreter when the judge determines that a witness cannot hear or understand the English language or cannot express himself or herself in English sufficiently to be understood.[2] Generally, it is thought that the appointment of an interpreter serves to protect the rights of parties; assists in creating an English-language record; and facilitates the fair and efficient administration of justice.

Florida statutory law does not include standards for those serving as court interpreters and makes no provision for their certification and training. According to the Supreme Court Interpreter's Committee, Florida courts differ in the way in which they manage, regulate, and coordinate court interpreter services.[3] The State courts system has developed a voluntary statewide program to assist trial court administrators in assessing the qualifications of foreign language court interpreters, including the use of qualifications examinations and an orientation program with an overview of the Code of Professional Responsibility. Additionally, as a member of the Consortium for State Court Interpreter Certification, Florida has access to standardized testing instruments, among other services and products. Interpreters passing the standardized test and attending the orientation program qualify for inclusion on the Registry of Tested Court Interpreters.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1 creates the court interpreter certification program and authorizes the Supreme Court to charge fees and employ staff for this purpose.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

The bill does not specify whether it applies to foreign language court interpreters, sign language court interpreters, or both. It also does not indicate whether or not it includes foreign language translators. If the intent of the sponsor is to limit this to foreign language court interpreters or to include translators, the bill would benefit from an amendment.

The bill also provides that fee revenues shall be used to partially offset program costs. It is unclear whether or not that means that fees may be set at less than the cost to provide the service or that the revenues generated from the fees may be used for other programs not contemplated in the bill.

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE & COMBINED BILL CHANGES

A bill to be entitled

An act relating to regulation of court interpreters; requiring the Supreme Court to establish standards and procedures for qualifications, certification, conduct, discipline, and training of appointed court interpreters; authorizing the Supreme Court to set fees for certification applications; specifying the use and deposit of such fees; authorizing the Supreme Court to appoint or employ personnel for certain administration assistance purposes; providing an effective date.

Be It Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Florida:

Section 1. The Supreme Court shall establish minimum standards and procedures for qualifications, certification, professional conduct, discipline, and training of court interpreters who are appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction. The Supreme Court may set fees to be charged to applicants for certification and renewal of certification as a court interpreter. The revenues generated from such fees shall be used to partially offset the costs of administration of the certification program and shall be deposited into the Grants and Donations Trust Fund within the state courts system. The Supreme Court may appoint or employ such personnel as is necessary to assist the court in administering this section.

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The bill provides additional purposes regarding the implementation of a unified family court program in the circuit courts. These additional purposes are being added to chapter 39, F.S., pertaining to proceedings relating to children, chapter 61, F.S., pertaining to dissolution of marriage, support, and custody, and chapter 985, F.S., pertaining to the juvenile justice system. The additional purposes include:

- to provide children and families with a coordinated judicial system that minimizes multiple actions and provides one decisionmaker and a coordinated approach in dealing with the applicable issues of the child or family.
- to encourage the circuit courts to implement and establish a unified family court program by local rule or administrative order to be submitted to the Florida Supreme Court for approval as directed by the Florida Supreme Court.
- to improve the resolution of disputes within the judicial system for children and families by promoting the implementation of the Coordinated Management Model as established by the Florida Supreme Court and the concept of "one family, one judge" to coordinate multiple cases involving one family.

Last year, the Legislature implemented recommendations by the Florida Supreme Court related to the operation of a unified family court system These recommendations were to:

- Allow the court system to create a unique identifier to identify all court cases related to the same family.
- Provide that specified orders entered in dependency court take precedence over court orders entered in other civil proceedings.
- Provide that final orders and evidence admitted in dependency actions are admissible in evidence in subsequent civil proceedings under certain circumstances.

The bill takes effect on July 1, 2006.

This bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local government.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

Provide limited government – The unified family court system concept has the potential to avoid or at least reduce the number of conflicting orders relating to the same family and prevent multiple court appearances by the same family on the same issues. This may serve to reduce the number of hearings and therefore maximize judicial resources. This bill further implements that concept.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

Last year, the Legislature implemented recommendations by the Florida Supreme Court related to the operation of a unified family court system.[1] These recommendations were to:

- Allow the court system to create a unique identifier to identify all court cases related to the same family.
- Provide that specified orders entered in dependency court take precedence over court orders entered in other civil proceedings.
- Provide that final orders and evidence admitted in dependency actions are admissible in evidence in subsequent civil proceedings under certain circumstances.

Florida's initiative for a unified family court reform began as a result of increasing demands being placed on the judicial system by the large volume of cases involving children and families. As the number of family court filings significantly increases, the Supreme Court has noted that it must seek to improve productivity and conserve resources.[2] Against this background, the Court created the Family Court Steering Committee in 1994 to, among other things, advise the Court about the circuits' responses to families in litigation and make recommendations on the characteristics of a model family court.[3]

In 2002, a joint interim project was conducted by the Senate Committee on Judiciary and the Senate Committee on Children and Families. Several recommendations for statutory change were included in the report. One such change was to allow the use of a unique personal identification for people who come before the court.[4]

Under current law, legal issues involving children and families are frequently addressed by different divisions of the court, particularly in larger judicial circuits. In many cases, the parties are appearing before a different judge in each proceeding. Therefore, it is possible that a judge may be unaware of previous or pending related legal matters involving the same children or family before the court.

The court, at p.520, reports that as of 1998 and 1999, family law cases constituted the largest percentage of all circuit court filings – over 40%. The court also reported that for this same period, these cases overwhelmingly represented the largest percentage of circuit court cases that were reopened - almost 70%.

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill provides additional purposes regarding the implementation of a unified family court program in the circuit courts. These additional purposes are being added to chapter 39, F.S., pertaining to proceedings relating to children, chapter 61, F.S., pertaining to dissolution of marriage, support, and custody, and chapter 985, F.S., pertaining to the juvenile justice system. This may serve to reduce the number of hearings and therefore maximize judicial resources. This bill further implements that concept.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Not applicable because this bill does not appear to require counties or cities to: spend funds or take action requiring the expenditure of funds; reduce the authority of counties or cities to raises revenues in the aggregate; or reduce the percentage of a state tax shared with counties or cities.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

The bill does not create a need for rulemaking or rulemaking authority.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

Though the provisions of the bill are non-substantive, placing identical language in multiple places in Florida Statutes may make it difficult in the future to maintain consistency should these provisions ever need to be rewritten.

SUMMARY ANALYSIS

In mediation, a trained intermediary assists parties to a dispute in reaching agreement. Courts often refer cases to mediation in order to assist the parties and to relieve docket congestion. In 2005, family court references in the statutes were changed to references to the unified family court model; however, mediation law was not correspondingly changed.

This PCB amends mediation law to conform to the unified family court model. This PCB also makes other technical and corrective changes to mediation law.

This PCB does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local governments.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. HOUSE PRINCIPLES ANALYSIS:

This PCB does not appear to implicate any of the House Principles.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

Mediation is a type of alternative dispute resolution used to resolve legal conflict between parties. Family law is one area where mediation has been widely used by the courts to assist parties in reaching agreement prior to trial. In mediation, parties involved in a dispute meet to work out their differences with the help of a mediator. The mediator assists and guides the parties toward their own solution by helping them to define the important issues and understand each other's interests. The mediator focuses each side on the crucial factors necessary for settlement and on the consequences of not settling. The mediator does not decide the outcome of the case and cannot compel the parties to settle.

In 2005, the Florida Legislature passed SB 348, which in part created s. 25.375, F.S. Section 25.375, F.S., authorizes the Supreme Court to adopt a unified family court model. The unified family court model utilizes a unified system of judicial case coordination in the state to identify cases relating to individuals and families. Individuals and families are assigned to a single circuit court judge that handles all of their cases dealing with family law matters. This model alleviates the problem of having different judges presiding over one family's various family law cases. The purpose is to reduce confusion and avoid conflicting court orders.

The act creating the unified family court system did not make corresponding changes to related statutes pertaining to mediation.

Effect of the PCB

This PCB redefines mediation in chapter 44, F.S., to provide for mediation in the unified family court. This PCB reflects the changes created by the passage in 2005 of s. 25.375, F.S., which created the unified family court system.

This PCB amends s. 44.1011, F.S., to create a definition for "unified family court mediation". "Unified family court mediation" means mediation of any of the following circuit court matters:

- Dissolution of marriage.
- Division and distribution of property arising out of a dissolution of marriage.
- Annulment.
- Support unconnected with dissolution of marriage.
- Paternity.
- Child support.
- The Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act and the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act.
- Custodial care of and access to children.
- Adoption.
- Name changes.
- Declaratory judgment actions related to premarital, marital, or postmarital agreements.
- Civil domestic, repeat, sexual, or dating violence injunctions.
- Juvenile dependency.

- Termination of parental rights.
- Juvenile delinquency.
- Emancipation of a minor.
- Children in need of services.
- Families in need of services.
- Truancy.
- Modification and enforcement of orders entered in these cases.

This PCB also amends s. 44.1011, F.S., to remove the definitions for "family mediation" and "dependency or in need of service mediation".

This PCB creates s. 44.1015, F.S. The new section contains substantive law regarding the scope and content of mediation currently in s. 44.1011, F.S. (definitions applicable to ch. 44, F.S.).

This PCB amends s. 44.102, F.S., to provide that a court must refer to mediation matters that involve disputed custody, visitation, or other parental responsibility issues. However, a court must not refer to mediation, regardless of any other law, any case dealing with domestic violence, dating violence, or sexual violence injunctions, except pursuant to rules adopted by the Supreme Court of Florida. This PCB also provides that a court must not refer to mediation any case where the court finds that there has been a history of violence which would compromise the mediation process or endanger any person's safety.

This PCB provides that the Supreme Court is responsible for maintaining a list of certified mediators instead of the chief judge of each judicial circuit. This change reflects current practice.

This PCB amends s. 44.108, F.S., related to fees for mediation services. The PCB changes responsibility for payment from each "person" in a case to each "party".

Section 61.183(1), F.S., provides that a court may refer to mediation any proceeding in which the issues of parental responsibility, primary residence, visitation, or support of a child are contested. However, s. 44.102, F.S., provides that a court must refer to mediation disputed custody, visitation, or other parental responsibility issues. This PCB amends s. 61.183, F.S., to conform to s. 44.102, F.S., requiring that a court refer to mediation cases where the issue of parental responsibility, primary residence, visitation, or support of a child is contested.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1 amends s. 44.1011, F.S., to revise definitions applicable to mediation.

Section 2 creates s. 44.1015, F.S., to provide for conduct of mediation.

Section 3 amends s. 44.102, F.S., to provide when a court must refer cases to mediation and when the courts must not refer cases to mediation.

Section 4 amends s. 44.108, F.S., to provide fee provisions related to mediation.

Section 5 amends s. 61.183, F.S., to require mediation in certain family law cases and provide conformity with section 44.102(c), F.S.

Section 6 provides an effective date of July 1, 2006.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

The Dispute Resolution Center provided the following fiscal comment:

> "Under current law, the only mediation cases for which fees can be charged are county court cases above small claims and "family" cases as currently defined in 44.1011(c). Dependency cases (and other cases which would be under the umbrella of the unified family court) currently are exempt from mediation fees. Thus, the changes as proposed would continue existing law and is only necessitated because of redefining "family" and "dependency" mediation in terms of "unified family court" in section 44.1011."[1]
